PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

By Vicki Schmidt, CLA

Dear Members:

Last month I enjoyed an all too short vacation/CLE trip to Germany and I can testify that travel to a foreign country has changed my world view. You can see from the attached photos that I experienced an opera with several paralegals from Midland and Austin. We knew the opera, Parsifal by Richard Wagner, was sung in German, but we adventurers wanted to have a cultural experience that was uniquely German. It was interesting, however, jet lag got the better of us, and most of us left early. Richard Wagner's work greatly influenced one of the Bavarian kings, Ludwig II, who was primarily responsible for bankrupting the free state of Bavaria with his numerous monumental building projects. He built himself several castles, hunting lodges, and weekend get-away mansions – all with tax dollars. None of these projects benefited his subjects until King Ludwig's political cronies declared the king "mad," removed him from office, and began selling admission tickets to tourists to see the many interesting, but self-serving projects King Ludwig built with public money. This brings me to another picture – this one of me at the king's most fanciful castle, Neuschwanstein.

Fast forward about a century and we come to the not so free state of Bavaria, ripe for rebellion again due to the mistakes of the country's leaders that led to the defeat of Germany at the end of World War I. The economic panic and distrust of the political establishment following that war soon led to conditions that permitted the rise of a new and radical leader – Adolf Hitler. The legal education portion of my trip included a visit to the town of Nuremberg, Germany and the Palace of Justice where the Nuremberg War Trials that took place at the end of World War II. We had a very interesting presentation by a local guide who walked us through the museum and courtroom where the process took place. World War II was one of the first wars to be filmed in "moving pictures" – not just still photography. This museum uses many film clips to show portions of the trials and even the behind the scenes work of dozens of paralegals who went through thousands of pages of records looking for evidence – those "smoking guns" that would help prove the International Tribunal's case against some of the men the court believed to be the masterminds behind the worst of the atrocities committed by Hitler's regime.

Those paralegals had to have exceptional organizational skills, be fluent in English and German, be able to remember details, write summaries and reports, and catalogue the documents that came into their control. Not only that – it was done without today's modern equipment. It's amazing what skilled paralegals can do!

The trip gave me a chance to see another part of the world and to see how the lives of people in that part of the world have been affected by economic and political situations similar to those faced by Americans. I also met many awesome fellow paralegals.

The PD trip in 2012 is to Italy ... hmmm...I wonder what unique situations the paralegals at the Vatican face; I wonder what obstacles ancient Italian paralegals faced when Mt. Vesuvius erupted in 79 AD, smothering the city of Pompeii in ash and lava – maybe I'll find out.
